Tickets $5 - $15. All net proceeds are donated to organizations working for social equity and equality. If you can afford it, please buy a $15 or $10 ticket, and if you can't, buy a $5 ticket.

This event is the fifth in the SiLC series produced by the Storytelling Association of California. Our storytelling pairs for the evening are: Angela James & Ed Lewis, and Ollis Mozon & Dana Sherry. Stay for a lively interactive Q&A between storytellers and audience members following the stories.

Stories in Living Color

working together...
learning about race,
unlearning racism and discrimination

PRODUCED BY

Angela James

Angela James is a storyteller and poet steeped in the oral tradition of the Caribbean. Her storytelling events, featuring an eclectic fusion of stories, music and movement, entertain audiences in Sacramento and all over northern California. Ms. James has received several grants to promote storytelling and poetry in schools.

Ed Lewis

Ed Lewis is a retired Early Childhood Professor. Since 1997, he has traveled the world sharing stories, music, and puppets with audiences in Holland, Spain, Brazil, Denmark and throughout the US. One of Ed's passions is producing storytelling events in his hometown of Davis, California, which he has been doing for the past 16 years. Ed sits on the board of the Storytelling Association of California where he heads up SAC's online Genre Stories Project.

O.J. Mozon, Jr.

Ollis Jon (O.J.) Mozon, Jr. is a native of Washington, DC, who loves telling stories to energize hope, encourage faith, exude love, and enlighten minds. While serving as a US Navy chaplain, he discovered and employed the joys of storytelling as part of adopt-a-school projects with Sailors and Marines and special diversity events. O. J. Mozon, Jr., Griot, StorySticks: Tales for Life's Journey

Dana Sherry

Dana Sherry was once a respectable historian of Russia until she turned to a life of storytelling. Now, she tells traditional tales from Central Asia, the Caucasus, and beyond in concert halls, schools, libraries, and festivals in the US and the former Soviet Union. Dana is also artistic director of the Caravan of Stories, a monthly concert series featuring folk tales and music from the heart of the Silk Road.

Rocky Ross

Tonight's emcee is Rocky Ross, host and curator of The Reboot * Storytelling ReImagined, a live show that played to standing-room-only audiences for three years in a garden venue under the stars on California's central coast. Now on Zoom—and unbounded by geography—

The Reboot continues to delight story lovers with a unique mix of diverse tellers from around the country. True personal stories around the monthly theme, and the occasional dash of spoken word, improv, sketch and "impromptu pudding" thrown in for good measure, make each run of The Reboot a surprising adventure in word play and performance. Rocky's passion is telling stories and story coaching one-on-one to bring new voices to The Reboot stage. Story on! facebook.com/the.reboot4u
